

Juany Guzmán.

PhD. in Political Science and Sociology, Complutense University in Madrid; Master in Constitutional Law and Political Science, Constitutional Studies Center, Madrid; Magister Scientiae in Sociology and Licentiate in Political Science, University of Costa Rica. Since 1989, Professor and Researcher at this university. Director of Political Science Department (July 2000-June 2004) y Sub-Director of Social Sciences Institute (1996-2002). She has served as Fellow Scholar at the Woodrow Wilson International Center. Consulting in Estado de la Nación Project; Human Rights Inter American Institute, United Nations Development Program and several inter-universities projects. Researches and publications in topics like citizenship, public policies, consumer rights, accountability, congresses and political parties. She is the Regional Academic Coordinator of FLACSO since August 2004.

Her last publications are: Consumers: actual debate and perspectives for contemporary citizenship. Coeditor: Luis Emilio Jiménez González University of Costa Rica – F. Ebert Foundation. San José, 2004; Political parties democratization in Central America. Coauthor: Sergio Iván Alfaro Salas. Human Rights Inter American Institute. San José, 2004; “About governance agenda for development”. In Public Management, Ethics and Governance: strategic goals for Costa Rican state and society in XXI century. University of Costa Rica, 2004.